Acknowledgement of Country

St John Western Australia (WA) acknowledges the First Nations peoples of the many Traditional lands and language groups across Western Australia as the Traditional Custodians of the Country. We pay our respects to their Ancestors and Elders, past and present.

St John WA is committed to honouring the unique cultural and spiritual relationships to the land, sea and waterways and the rich continuing contribution Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples make to our society.

Reconciliation commitment

St John WA continued its reconciliation journey through learning, reflection and practical action across the year.

In November 2025, team members took part in the St John WA Reconciliation Walk, acknowledging the organisation's ongoing commitment to respectful relationships, cultural understanding and shared responsibility.

During National Reconciliation Week in May 2026, St John WA marked the national theme "All In" through activities including a Reconciliation Breakfast watch party, Lunch and Learn sessions, Cultural Awareness Training and resources supporting meaningful engagement with First Nations histories, cultures and communities.

These activities supported the ongoing implementation of St John WA's Innovate Reconciliation Action Plan and reinforced the organisation's commitment to cultural safety and opportunity for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples.

Recognition of St John

The Commandery of Western Australia is part of the Most Venerable Order of the Hospital of St John of Jerusalem, a Royal Order of Chivalry with a continuous tradition of service dating back about 1000 years. Today, the Order operates across 44 establishments worldwide and is guided by its mottoes: Pro Fide ("For the Faith") and Pro Utilitate Hominum ("For the Service of Humanity").

The Commandery shares these values with St John WA, whose purpose is to serve humanity and build resilient communities through the relief of sickness, distress, suffering and danger. While many Members of the Order are not involved in day-to-day operations, some are. Regardless of their involvement, all Members are recognised for service that reflects the values of the Order and are part of its continuing presence in Western Australia, and all bring valuable lived experience into the ceremonial and stewardship life of the Commandery.

Western Australia is one of only five Commanderies globally. Appointments to the Order are made under the authority of His Majesty King Charles III, Sovereign Head of the Order, and form part of the Australian Honours System. Membership is granted in recognition of sustained service to St John or the broader community. That service is often local, usually quiet, and always purposeful.

The Commandery exists alongside, not above, St John WA. Its Members take deep pride in the work done across the State and carry a unique responsibility. As the organisation modernises and grows, they help ensure its foundations remain visible and valued.

Message from the Commandery Lieutenant

Board Chair Monish Paul
St John WA

As I share my first reflection as Chair of the St John WA Board, I do so with deep respect for the Members of the Order of St John Commandery in Western Australia.

Stepping into this role has been both an honour and a responsibility. Throughout my first year, I have been struck by the depth of commitment, wisdom and generosity that exists across our Commandery. Whether meeting Members at Investiture, our Annual General Meeting, Commandery engagement sessions or during the Board's regional visit to Albany and the Great Southern, I have been reminded that the strength of the Order lies not simply in its history, but in the people who continue to carry its values forward every day.

Before looking ahead, I would like to acknowledge the remarkable contribution of my predecessor, Sally Carbon OAM OLY DStJ. Sally's leadership strengthened governance, deepened engagement with Members and helped position St John WA for the future while never losing sight of the organisation's rich heritage. Her promotion to Dame of Grace this year was a fitting recognition of many years of outstanding service, and on behalf of the Board I thank Sally for the legacy she leaves to all of us.

One of the great privileges of this first year has been the opportunity to listen.

At every engagement I have welcomed the thoughtful questions, honest conversations and genuine interest Members have shown in the future of St John WA. Those discussions have reinforced an important lesson for me: good governance begins by listening. The experience and perspective held within our Order is extraordinary, and I have been grateful for the willingness of Members to share both their encouragement and their challenges with openness and respect.

The Board exists because Members place their trust in it. That trust carries a responsibility to think beyond today's decisions and steward the organisation for generations to come. Our role is to set the long-term strategic direction of St John WA, ensure strong governance, and protect the enduring purpose that has guided this organisation for more than 130 years. We do not hold that responsibility apart from the Commandery—we exercise it in service of it.

This year, the Board approved St John WA's 2030 Strategic Direction, reaffirming that while our organisation will continue to evolve, our purpose remains constant: to serve humanity and build resilient communities through the relief of sickness, distress, suffering and danger. That balance between preserving what matters and preparing for tomorrow will continue to guide our decisions.

Throughout the year we were honoured to welcome distinguished guests from across the wider Order, including Archbishop Emeritus Sir David Moxon KNZM GCStJ Prelate of the Order, and The Very Reverend Dr Andreas Loewe CStJ, Dean of the Priory in Australia. Their visits reminded us that while our service is grounded in Western Australian communities, we are also part of a remarkable international family united by shared values and a common purpose.

We also continue to value the enduring support of our Knight Commander, His Excellency the Honourable Chris Dawson AC APM KStJ. His ongoing commitment to the Order, his genuine interest in the people of St John WA and his willingness to recognise service at every opportunity reflects the importance of the relationship between Government House and the Commandery.

This Yearbook also reminds us of those whose service has come to an end. We honour Members who have passed during the year, many after decades of quiet and dedicated contribution to St John WA. Some have also chosen to continue supporting the organisation through gifts that will benefit future generations. Such generosity is deeply humbling. It reminds us that stewardship extends beyond a lifetime, and that we honour those gifts by ensuring St John WA remains worthy of the trust they placed in it.

To every Member of the Order, thank you. Whether your contribution is through volunteering, mentoring, governance, ceremony, preserving our heritage or quietly supporting your local community, you continue to strengthen both St John WA and the communities we serve.

It has been a privilege to spend this first year learning from you, listening to you and representing you. I look forward to continuing that journey together as we honour our heritage, steward our future and remain steadfast in our shared commitment to the service of humanity.

Order reflection

Archbishop Emeritus Sir David Moxon KNZM GCStJ
Prelate, Order of St John

It was a privilege to visit Western Australia in July 2025, shortly after taking up the role of Prelate of the Order of St John. While the visit was brief, it offered a meaningful window into the life of the Commandery and the broader work of St John WA.

Over the course of several days, I had the opportunity to spend time with Board members, team members and Order Members, and to see firsthand the breadth of activity that sits behind what is, at its heart, a simple and enduring purpose – service to others. From operational facilities to community-facing services, and from conversations over coffee to more formal engagements, there was a consistent sense of clarity and commitment in how that purpose is expressed.

Coming from Aotearoa New Zealand, there was also a familiar resonance in the model of care and service I observed. Across both contexts, there is a shared commitment to community-based response, to the integration of professional capability with volunteer contribution, and to the provision of emergency ambulance services that sit close to the communities they serve. That affinity speaks to something deeper within the St John tradition – a practical expression of care that is both locally grounded and globally connected.

The visit to the Coolamon Centre stood out in particular. As a space that brings together training, community connection and the preservation of history, it reflects something important about St John in Western Australia – an organisation that understands where it has come from, while continuing to invest thoughtfully in where it is going. That balance between tradition and renewal is not always easy to achieve, but it was evident throughout my time with you.

Equally, seeing elements of the organisation's operational capability – from logistics and support functions through to urgent care – reinforced the scale and sophistication of the work being undertaken. What is often unseen by the community is the depth of coordination, skill and care that underpins every response and every interaction. It is clear that this is an organisation that takes both its responsibilities and its opportunities seriously.

The role of the Commandery in this context is both distinctive and important. As St John WA continues to modernise and grow, the Commandery provides a steady line of stewardship – helping to ensure that the organisation remains anchored in its values and traditions, even as it evolves to meet the needs of a changing world. That continuity is not simply ceremonial; it is a guiding influence that shapes how service is understood and delivered.

As Prelate, I am particularly interested in how the values of the Order are lived, not simply stated. In Western Australia, those values – service, humility, respect and care for others – are visible in practical ways. They are reflected in the contribution of team members, in the leadership of the organisation, and in the ongoing stewardship of the Commandery.

The Order of St John has always been both local and global. Each Commandery carries its own context and character, while remaining connected to a shared history and purpose that spans centuries and continents. The work being done in Western Australia contributes meaningfully to that wider story.

This Yearbook provides an opportunity to recognise the individuals who give their time, skill and commitment in service of others, often without seeking recognition. It also offers a moment to reflect on the continuity of that service – across generations, across communities, and across the evolving life of the organisation.

Thank you for the generosity of your welcome, and for the work you continue to do in the name of St John.

St John WA's 2025 Annual General Meeting (AGM) brought together Members of the Order and the organisation for an evening combining three key events — the Chapter Meeting of the Commandery, the Annual General Meeting of St John WA, and a Commandery engagement session.

About 40 Members attended in person at Cowcher Place along with the Executive Team and Board, and more dialled in online from locations including Harvey and Wyalkatchem.

Key highlights included:

- Reflections from outgoing Commandery Lieutenant Sally Carbon OAM OLY DStJ, marking the conclusion of her three years as Board Chair.
- Formal presentation of the FY25 Annual Report and Impact Report, detailing performance, achievements, and community impact across the year.
- Election of Melanie Gates GAICD as Non-Executive Director, re-election of Elisa Fear GAICD, and the confirmation of Monish Paul MAICD CStJ as incoming Board Chair.
- Board and GCEO updates outlining priorities for FY26 and beyond, including strengthening connection, innovation and commercial sustainability across St John's emergency, community and preventative streams.

Welcome Monish Paul

Monish Paul MAICD CStJ was welcomed as the new Chair of the Board, succeeding Sally Carbon OAM OLY DStJ.

Monish brings to the role deep experience in governance, transformation, technology and working with government and regulated industries after a career spanning more than 25 years. He has served with distinction on our Board, as well as Audit & Investment and Risk Committees since his commencement in 2024.

The appointment of Monish also provided a moment for Members to pause and express our deepest thanks and admiration to Sally. Over her tenure as Board Chair, Sally's clarity, energy and unwavering commitment to transparency strengthened every corner of the organisation from governance and communication to the strong and enduring connection between the Commandery and Board.

Sally's leadership has left an indelible mark on St John WA — one defined by inclusion, innovation and integrity.

December

Lifetime Achievement Awards

More than 50 Friends of St John gathered on 17 December to celebrate the Lifetime Association Awards, recognising individuals who have maintained a long-standing connection with St John through various forms of service and involvement.

Head of Volunteer Engagement Craig Spencer was MC for the day and was joined by Volunteer Experience Business Partner Allison Rayner to discuss volunteering opportunities and programs.

Group CEO Kevin Brown gave a business update before answering questions and presenting certificates and pins to award recipients. Congratulations to Robert Barker ASM OStJ (50 years), Maria Godwell CStJ and Maxine Martin MStJ (each 55 years), Ronald Jeakes OStJ (60 years) and Darren Mouchemore CStJ (70 years).

Marking a centenary of youth

In 2025, St John marked 100 years of youth programs in Australia — recognising a long history of developing young people through leadership, service and first aid.

In Western Australia, this milestone was reflected through the continued growth of the St John Academy.

The weekly program engages young people aged 12-17 in leadership, first aid and community service, expanding during the year from six to ten locations across metropolitan and regional WA.

Participants are already applying their skills in real-world settings — supporting their communities and building the confidence to act when it matters.

With strong demand and further expansion planned, The Academy is helping shape the next generation of leaders in health and community service.

May

National Volunteer Awards
Brian Gallop ASM OStJ was recognised nationally as a finalist in the inaugural Australian Volunteer of the Year Award, announced at Government House during National Volunteer Week.

Hosted by Governor-General Her Excellency the Honourable Sam Mostyn AC, the event celebrated the contribution of volunteers across Australia. The inaugural national honour was awarded to Dr Felix Ho ASM OAM OStJ from the Northern Territory, recognised for his sustained leadership, service and positive impact through volunteering. It was particularly meaningful to see the inaugural award presented to another Member of the Order of St John, reflecting the extraordinary contribution Order Members continue to make in communities across Australia.

A longtime Emergency Medical Technician and Volunteer Development Officer with nearly 30 years of service, Brian was acknowledged for his exceptional commitment to St John WA and regional communities across the State. Alongside a new paid role in Perth, he continues volunteering through Community Transport Services, Event Health Services and rural ambulance work, while also running a charity that creates sensory aids for people living with dementia and autism.

Brian said the recognition highlighted the importance of volunteering and the difference volunteers make in strengthening communities, crediting his late mother as a major inspiration for his lifelong commitment to service.

The recognition followed Brian being named WA Volunteer of the Year in 2025, marking the second consecutive year a Member of the Order of St John in Western Australia had received the State honour.

Order of St John and Friends catchup
A preview screening connected to the upcoming observational documentary series Paramedics TV sparked lively conversation when members of the Friends of St John, the Commandery and the broader St John WA community gathered at the Coolamon Centre in May.

The evening offered guests a behind-the-scenes look at the experiences of frontline responders, followed by an engaging Q&A with project lead James Foggo, Operations Lead Andy Blane and budding TV star and Paramedic Ven Civitella. Attendees asked thoughtful questions, shared reflections and expressed strong admiration for the St John WA team members featured in the series.

Held at Sirens Café and the adjoining museum space, the event also provided an opportunity for long-serving volunteers, Order Members, heritage volunteers and team members to reconnect and hear an organisational update from Group CEO Kevin Brown.

June

St John's Day Church Service

The annual St John's Day Church Service was held at St George's Cathedral on 21 June, marking the birth of John the Baptist, patron saint of the Order of St John. This tradition honours the Order's historic origins and celebrates the ongoing commitment of its members to the mottoes Pro Fide (For the Faith) and Pro Utilitate Hominum (For the Service of Humanity).

Members of the Order and St John WA team gathered in a moving ceremony rich in symbolism. Senior members donned traditional black mantles, while the Great Sword – carried before the Knight Commander – was borne in peace, acknowledging the Order's roots in the Hospitallers of Jerusalem.

Board connects with Great Southern communities

Continuing the Commandery's annual regional engagement tradition, the St John WA Board travelled to the Great Southern region in June, coinciding with St John's Day, to spend time with volunteers, career team members, Order Members and community leaders across the region.

Board members visited Denmark, Kendenup, Mount Barker and Walpole, touring facilities, meeting local teams and hearing firsthand about the opportunities and challenges facing country ambulance services. The visits reinforced the strength of the volunteer model and the deep connection between St John WA and the communities it serves.

The Board and Group Executive later joined Order Members for an engagement session in Albany, providing an update on organisational priorities and the Board's 2030 Strategic Direction while discussing the future of regional services, volunteer sustainability and community wellbeing.

The day concluded with a sundowner bringing together local government representatives, health partners, emergency services, community organisations and Order Members, recognising the importance of collaboration in building healthier and more resilient regional communities. Representatives attended from the Great Southern Development Commission, WA Country Health Service, WA Police, Albany Community Hospice, Palmerston Association and local government, alongside St John team members.

Throughout the visit, Board members reflected on the Great Southern's proud St John heritage, with 21 response locations supported largely by volunteers, 88 Order Members across the district, and local initiatives such as the Looking Forward Giving Back program and Albany's L&P Plater First Aid Program demonstrating how local innovation continues to strengthen communities.

Investiture

Meaning of Investiture

St John WA was privileged to have a special guest at Investiture for 2026

The Very Revd Dr Andreas Loewe CStJ
Dean of the Priory of Australia, Order of St John

It was a privilege to be present in Western Australia for the 2026 Investiture as part of my first visit to St John WA since taking up the role of Dean of the Priory of Australia. As Priory Dean I serve the St John Chaplains across our States and Territories. In Western Australia, St John is a force for good that serves the whole state. People from Perth to the Pilbara, Bunbury to Broome, Kalgoorlie to Karratha, rely on the life-saving service provided by the members of St John, both paid and volunteer colleagues coming together to provide ambulance services, first aid, training and logistics.

Across Australia, St John is one of the most respected organisations—because we care, and we are there in times of need. There are many reasons why our members choose to serve others. You may have joined St John because a family member or a friend also serves. That's certainly true in my family: my grandpa and dad both were volunteer ambos. And I have taken their service to heart in my own volunteer work with St John.

There is another dimension to my own service, and I know that many in the St John family share my conviction: I serve, because it helps me live out the beautiful invitation at the heart of the Christian faith to love my neighbour as myself. For me, that love is shown forth most in the respect, care, compassion and the willingness to put our skills and talents to use in service of those in need. I see those values alive in our St John members, whatever your own faith or convictions.

No one joins St John to receive a medal. We join to serve others through the life-giving, life-saving skills we contribute to the work of St John summed up so well in the second part of our motto, 'for the service to humanity'. But it is important that we do recognise the long and impactful service of our members with awards and commendations. The honour you receive is not only a recognition by the Order of St John. It's a recognition by the whole community. That's why we came together in Government House, for the Lord Commander, Governor Chris Dawson, to convey the thanks and recognition of all Western Australians for the work each member has contributed through their service.

Together with my colleagues in St John Chaplaincy across Australia, we often think of the service St John offers as a 'vocation' or a 'call'. Any vocation needs training and nurture, which is why we speak of vocational training. We educate ourselves to keep doing what we are doing, by being better informed and better equipped. That's something I have observed during my two visits to the West: how you purposefully invest in learning and teaching, and in equipping the next generation to take up the call to serve, and save lives.

I was able to observe another important aspect of the St John's work in the West: you invest in pastoral care in order to resource people when times get tough—because service is not always life-giving or easy. Sometimes things are hard to bear. That's where the Psychology and Wellbeing Services (PAWS) team here in the west, and my colleagues in Chaplaincy across Australia, do such important work. We lend a listening ear and provide a comforting presence. Please know that we pastoral care-givers are there to serve you—regardless of your own beliefs or convictions. That spiritual, pastoral service reflects for me the first part of our motto: 'for faith'.

As Dean of the Priory of Australia, I was privileged and delighted to share with you in celebrating the achievements of our members in the Commandery of Western Australia. Thank you for your warm welcome, and for putting on a fine Perth autumn day for this visitor from chilly Melbourne. Your service is an inspiration, and I warmly congratulate you on your achievements. I hope that the recognition serves as encouragement to you to keep on serving, and saving lives.

Bless you and thank you,

Dean Andreas CStJ

Investiture

A celebration of commitment

Sixteen members of the St John WA community were formally recognised for their service during the 2026 Investiture Ceremony held at Government House in May.

The annual ceremony recognises individuals who have made a significant contribution to St John WA and the broader community through leadership, volunteering, clinical care, education and service. This year's Investiture included one promotion to Dame, two promotions to Officer and nine admissions as Members of the Order of St John, alongside four recipients of Commandery Commendations.

Board Chair Monish Paul MAICD CStJ said the ceremony reflected the depth of service shown by St John people across metropolitan, regional and remote Western Australia.

"Today we recognised individuals who have gone above and beyond in service to their communities, to St John, and to the enduring mission of serving humanity," Monish said. "Their contributions are often made quietly over many years, but they have a real and lasting impact on the communities they serve."

Monish said admission to the Order of St John was both a recognition of contribution and an ongoing commitment to service.

Investiture highlights

Sally Carbon OAM OLY DStJ

Sally served St John WA with distinction since joining the State Board as a Non-Executive Director in 2012.

Admitted to the Order as a Member in 2018 and promoted to Commander in 2022, she simultaneously assumed the roles of Chair of the State Board and Commandery Lieutenant.

As Board Chair, Sally demonstrated exceptional strategic foresight and integrity, guiding the Board with rigour and a commitment to evidence-based decision-making.

She has championed a more open and transparent relationship between the Board and Order Members and shown particular dedication to workplace culture, team member wellbeing, as well as St John WA's engagement with First Nations communities.

Internationally, Sally has represented Australia with distinction through the Grand Council and APAC Regional Committee and was instrumental in renegotiating the Federation's Trademark Licence Agreement.

Lynne Schreurs OStJ

In her 25th year of commitment to the safety and welfare of her farming town of Boyup Brook, St John WA volunteer Lynne Schreurs was promoted to Officer within the Order of St John.

"I was very surprised to be promoted to Officer," Lynne said. "I was even surprised when I first became a member back in 2017, because I didn't believe I'd done enough. I feel honoured to have been accepted. It's not something I ever thought I would achieve."

She's held multiple roles with her local ambulance service since she responded to a St John ad for volunteers back in 2001 including sub centre chairperson, volunteer development officer and emergency medical technician.

Lynne is a constant and steady presence at Boyup Brook, playing a critical role in significantly enhancing facilities for volunteers, training and community engagement.

Reflecting on her impressive volunteering career, Lynne cites a local safety campaign to support some of her community's most at-risk citizens as a highlight.

She spearheaded an initiative for vulnerable Boyup Brook residents to have free lock boxes installed outside their homes and registered with St John to increase emergency access and improve patient outcomes locally.

Responding to a woman giving birth on the side of the road and getting mother and baby safely into Bridgetown Hospital was another proud moment.

"We were called to someone who was in labour and when we got to them the baby was 10 minutes old," Lynne said. "They were a farming family, and we met them about five kilometres outside of town. As I was driving there, I thought, 'Gosh, I've never had one this close.' But it was really lovely."

Lynne would encourage anyone thinking about becoming a volunteer ambulance officer with their local St John WA sub centre to take the plunge.

> "It's all about helping your community. I think it's nice to help people – particularly when they're really in a time of need. You'll get out of it what you put in. But it's extremely rewarding."

Investiture highlights

Alan Churchill MStJ

After 35 years of service, paramedic Alan Churchill has been admitted to the Order of St John.

Alan began his career with the NSW Ambulance Service before spending time as an officer with the Federal Police and WA Police.

In 1991, he returned to the world of paramedicine through St John WA and hasn't looked back since.

"From the first day I sat in an ambulance I thought, 'Just imagine that I am getting paid to do this,'" Alan said. "It took me some time to return to the fold but having done so, I knew I would likely never leave."

Alan has held both frontline and management roles at St John.

As his career winds down, he now calls the north-west town of Kununurra home — and he's committed to making the community healthier and safer for all.

"Kununurra is unique in many ways. It's a beautiful town and surrounded by the most amazing scenery," Alan said. "I have Indigenous lineage and making an effort to make things better for the community has been a goal of mine. At this point in my career, it works for me — but the wet season can pose a challenge."

Reflecting on the past 35 years, it is clear Alan has had a significant impact on the health and wellbeing of hundreds of West Australians.

"I have delivered babies into this world, brought people back from the brink of dying and successfully resuscitated others," Alan said. "I know that I have positively influenced hundreds of lives and there are people that still move among the mortal of us because of my actions and those of my teammates."

His son, Matt, and daughter, Beth, even followed him into careers focusing on emergency response.

Being a member of the Order is not something Alan has sought, but now that he's been recognised, it "feels good".

> "To discover it [admission to the Order] acknowledges my 'service of humanity' is a wonderful way to describe how I have conducted my working life."

"I'm always striving to make somebody's life experience better."

Alan continues to push his quest for understanding and begun training as a Death Doula - a non-medical professional who provides practical, emotional, and spiritual support to individuals and their families during the dying process. He cites this new knowledge and his spirituality as ways to make meaning of the tougher parts of the job. Not knowing what each day will bring also keeps him coming back to life as a paramedic.

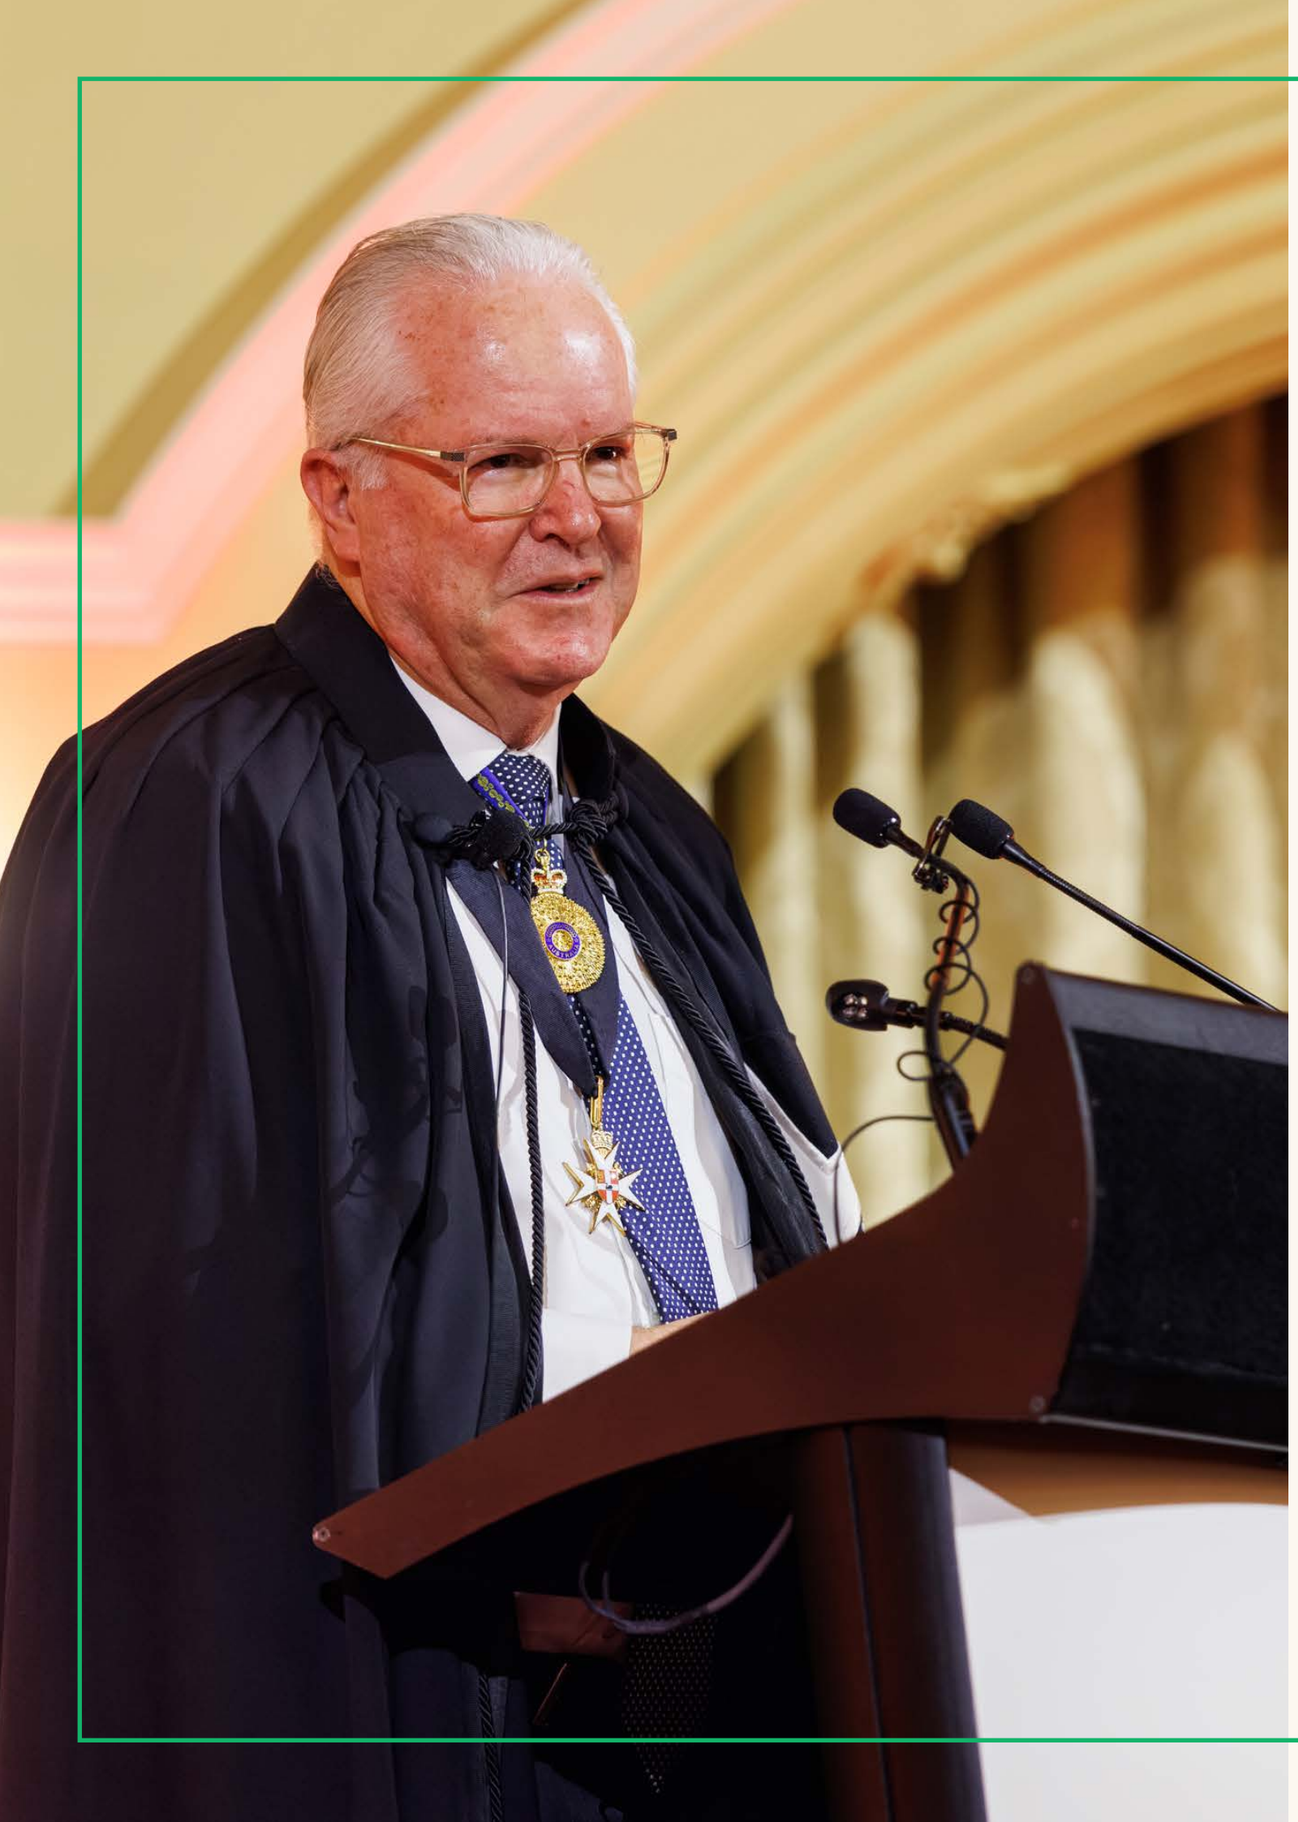
"I might be facing a standard day, but equally it might be the most challenging that I will ever face in my career," he said.

Outside of work, Alan has spent decades trekking at high altitudes through the Himalayas and Andes, and scaling some of the world's most challenging peaks.

His love of adventure has also taken him to Nepal, where he has volunteered multiple times, delivering pre-hospital care and first aid training to rural and remote communities.

In 2024, he spent five months traversing the length of the country, camping across glaciers and forests in a two-person tent.

But, for now, the adventure continues in Kununurra.



Leadership at the highest level

Paying respect to the enduring connection between the Commandery and the Crown through the role of WA Governor.

Governor's reflection

An enduring connection

The relationship between the Governor of Western Australia and the Order of St John is one that extends across generations.

The individuals entrusted with these roles inevitably change over time but the connection itself endures, carried forward through ceremony, service and a shared commitment to the community.

For successive Governors, the role of Knight Commander or Dame Commander of the Order in Western Australia has represented more than participation in tradition alone.

It reflects an enduring relationship between the Crown, the Order of St John and the people of Western Australia — one that has continued through changing times, changing communities and changing generations of service.

That continuity remains important.

Each year at Investiture, new Members are admitted into an Order whose history stretches back centuries, while at the same time recognising service grounded firmly in contemporary Western Australian life.

Volunteers, clinicians, educators and leaders are recognised not for ceremony itself, but for practical contributions that strengthen their communities.

The traditions surrounding the Order help give permanence to that recognition. They remind us that service does not stand apart from history or community, but becomes part of a longer and continuing story.

In Western Australia, St John has been part of community life for more than 130 years. Across that time, Governors have had the privilege of formally recognising those who carry the values of the Order forward through service to others.

Those entrusted with these responsibilities do so only for a time. We inherit traditions shaped by those before us and hold them in trust for those who will follow.

The enduring relationship between the Governor, the Order and the community is important not because of any one individual, but because it reflects a continuing commitment to recognising service, duty and care for others across generations.

I consider it a great privilege to have held this responsibility for a time, to be part of the continuing journey of St John in Western Australia, and to know that future Governors will continue to value and uphold that enduring connection.

His Excellency the Honourable Chris Dawson AC APM KStJ

Knight Commander of the Order of St John

Former Governors and the historic connection to the Order of St John

The long-standing connection between the Office of the Governor and the Order of St John has endured for more than a century, pre-dating foundation of the St John Commandery in Western Australia in 1947.

We acknowledge some of the former Governors who held strong ties to the Order of St John.

Photos courtesy of Government House. We thank them for their support on this project.

Sir Francis Newdegate GCMG GCStJ (Governor 1920–1924)

Sir Francis Newdegate's work is the earliest documented act of vice-regal engagement with St John WA.

Sir Francis had a political career in the United Kingdom before moving to Australia, where he served as Governor in Tasmania before he became Governor in Western Australia in 1920. In 1921, Sir Francis officially opened the head office of the St John Ambulance Association, which was attached to the fire brigade station on Murray Street in Perth. This first record of vice-regal engagement with St John WA paved the way for many more in the decades to follow.

Shortly after his retirement, Sir Francis was awarded the Bailiff Grand Cross of the Order of St John (GCStJ). This is the highest grade of the Order, just below royalty.

Sir Wallace Kyle GCB KCVO CBE DSO DFC KStJ (Governor 1975–1980)

Air Chief Marshal Sir Wallace Hart Kyle was the 24th Governor of Western Australia and the earliest gazetted KStJ. Born in Kalgoorlie, Sir Wallace left Australia to train at the Royal Air Force College in the United Kingdom. He held various senior roles in the Royal Air Force and served during the Second World War.

Sir Wallace retired from the Royal Air Force after a forty-year career. Several years later, Sir Wallace became Governor for WA and his Knight of Justice of the Order (KStJ) was gazetted in February 1976.

Among his notable contributions, Sir Wallace was also Patron of the Royal Flying Doctor Service and was instrumental in striking agreement between the organisations to settle aeromedical retrieval in WA, with assistance of then-premier Sir Charles Court.

Major General the Honourable Michael Jeffery AC AO (Mil) CVO MC KStJ (Governor 1993–2000; Governor-General 2003–2008)

Major General the Honourable Michael Jeffery had strong connections to St John WA both during his term as Governor for WA and as Governor-General for Australia.

At the retirement of an extensive military career, which included a tour of duty in the Vietnam war, Michael became Governor for WA in 1993. His Knight of Justice of the Order (KStJ) was gazetted during this time. His wife Marlena was also appointed as Dame of Grace (DStJ) in the Order of St John for her charitable work.

When Michael became Governor-General in 2003 he was the Prior of the Order of St John in Australia, making him the titular head of St John Ambulance Australia, directly representing Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II as Sovereign Head of the Order.

Governor Kim Beazley AC KStJ (Governor 2018–2022)

The Honourable Kim Beazley served as Governor of Western Australia from 2018 to 2022, following a distinguished career in public life that included service as Deputy Prime Minister of Australia and Australian Ambassador to the United States.

In 2019, he was invested as a Knight of Grace and installed as Knight Commander of the Commandery of Western Australia. During his term, Governor Beazley was a strong supporter of Western Australia's emergency services and the volunteers who serve their communities through organisations such as St John WA.

His tenure coincided with significant challenges, including the COVID-19 pandemic and major bushfire emergencies. Throughout this period, he regularly acknowledged the contribution of St John staff and volunteers, describing them as among the unsung heroes of the State's emergency response. He frequently attended St John events and recognition ceremonies, taking particular interest in the people whose service helped strengthen community resilience across Western Australia.

Governor Beazley's time as Knight Commander reflected the longstanding relationship between Government House and the Order of St John, and his commitment to recognising those who dedicate themselves to the service of others.
